Whereas, Myasthenia Gravis (MG) is a rare, often misdiagnosed, autoimmune, neuromuscular disease that causes weakness of the voluntary muscles; and

Whereas, although controllable by medication and other treatments, it can be fatal if untreated; and

Whereas, because of its rarity (approximately 70,000 people are living with MG in the U.S. today), many Americans are often undiagnosed; and

Whereas, the MGFA has a network of chapters throughout the United States whose mission is to facilitate the timely diagnosis and optimal care of individuals affected by myasthenia gravis and to improve their lives through programs of patient services, public information, medical research, professional education, advocacy and patient care;
